

New addition to Camroc team

East coast based electronic specialists Camroc Electronics Ltd have announced a new addition to their team with the appointment of electronics engineer Eoin Sweeney.

Camroc installed the E-Log system on Dearbhaille.

Eoin joins Camroc founders Don Rocca and Kieran Cambell to provide their customer base with a team that has over 100 years of combined electronics supply, repair and service experience between them. Both Don and Kieran are former ships radio officers and served their time with Marconi Marine,SAIT Marine, Decca & Racal Marine before setting up Camroc. Eoin is a graduate of Kevin St college and has been a qualified electronics engineer since the 1990's

Established in 1994 Camroc provide a 24/7 service covering all major electronic manufacturers and brands and have recently completed installations on the Howth based trawlers "Eblana" and "Ave Maria II"

The coming months also sees Camroc providing and installing a complete wheelhouse electronics package to Darren Kinsella, Arklow for his new Sutton potting catamaran currently under construction.

Speaking to The Skipper Darren said: "Having dealt with Camroc before i had no hesitation in asking them to fit out my new vessel. Having the engineers based on the east coast with a good backup service is definitely a bonus when i considered who would i use for the new build".

With a loyal customer base stretching from Kilkeel to Kilmore Quay the company services over 150 vessels a year and they are a familiar sight on many harbours and piers.

Don Rocca told The Skipper "We tend to be a low key operation and work away 'quietly under the radar', excuse the pun! Because of this a lot of vessel owners are probably not aware of the services we can provide and in some cases may even think we are not around anymore"

"With the addition of our new engineer Eoin we are perfectly placed to cover any eventuality that the fishing fleet face on the east coast and also are available to travel to any other Irish ports that may require our services"
